The purpose of this class is to study the multilayered relations between Latin American studies and the US liberation movements, particularly Third World movements, the Chicano movement, the black liberation movement, the indigenous movement, human rights activism, and trans-border activism. Students may not receive credit for LATI 100 and LATI 10.

Linguistics

LIGN 7. Sign Language and Their Cultures (4)
Deaf history since the eighteenth century. The structure of American Sign Language and comparison with oral languages. ASL poetry and narrative and Deaf people’s system of cultural knowledge. Basic questions concerning the nature of language and its relation to culture. Prerequisites: none.

LIGN 8. Languages and Cultures in America (4)
Language in American culture and society. Standard and nonstandard English in school, media, pop culture, politics; bilingualism and education; cultural perception of language issues over time; languages and cultures in the “melting pot,” including Native American, Hispanic, African American, Deaf. Prerequisites: none.

Literature

LTEN 31. Introduction to Indigenous Literature (4)
This course provides an introduction to the study of the history, politics, and cultures of tribal nations in the United States and other indigenous peoples across the hemisphere and Oceania impacted by US colonial projects. Students will examine a variety of texts, genres, and periods dealing with the historical (social, economic, and political) experiences of indigenous peoples impacted by US colonization and expansion.

Music

MUS 8. American Music: Jazz Cultures (4)
Jazz is one of the primary foundations for American music in the twentieth and twenty-first centuries. This course highlights the multicultural and international scope of jazz by taking a thematic rather than a chronological approach to the subject, and by highlighting the music and lives of a diverse array of jazz practitioners from around the country and around the world. Students may not receive credit for both MUS 8 and MUS 8GS. Prerequisites: none. (Offered in selected years.)

MUS 17. Hip-Hop (4)
This class presents a broad chronological overview of the development of hip-hop as a musical form from the late 1970s through today. It examines the development of the style in relation to direct context and to earlier African American musical and cultural forms and considers the technological and legal issues that have impacted its development. The class is listening intensive and students will be expected to know and recognize essential structures and production techniques. Prerequisites: none.

Management Science - Rady School of Management

MGT 18. Managing Diverse Teams (4)
The modern workplace includes people different in culture, gender, age, language, religion, education, and more. Students will learn why diverse teams make better decisions and are often integral to the success of organizations. Topics include challenges of diversity, and the impact of emotional, social, and cultural intelligence on team success. Content will include significant attention to the experiences of Asian Americans and African Americans as members and leaders of such diverse teams. Students will not receive credit for both MGT 18 and MGT 18GS.

Upper Division:

Anthropology

ANBI 131. Biology and Culture of Race (4)
This course examines conceptions of race from both evolutionary and sociocultural perspectives. We will examine current patterns of human genetic variation and critically determine how these patterns map onto current and historic conceptions of race in the United States, and abroad. We will also explore the social construction of race throughout US history, the use of racial categories in biomedicine today, and consequences of racism and discrimination on health. Prerequisites: upper-division standing.

ANSC 122. Language in Society (4)
This course examines the role of communicative practices and language differences in organizing social life. Topics include social action through language, child language socialization, language and social identity (ethnicity, gender, class); interethnic communication; language ideologies; and language and power in social institutions and everyday life. Prerequisites: upper-division standing.

ANTH 105. Climate Change, Race, and Inequality (4)
This course introduces students to the ways in which climate change exacerbates environmental racism and inequality. We will consider the ways that structural violence and discriminatory policies create environmental inequalities where marginalized communities take on more of the risk and burdens of climate change. We will address community organizing and social justice efforts to combat the systems of power that unevenly distribute the burdens of climate change to marginalized communities. Prerequisites: upper-division standing.

Critical Gender Studies

CGS 112. Sexuality and Nation (4)
(Cross-listed with ETHN 127) This course explores the nexus of sex, race, ethnicity, gender, and nation and considers their influence on identity, sexuality, migration movement and borders, and other social, cultural, and political issues that these constructs affect. Prerequisites: upper-division standing or consent of instructor.

CGS 119. Asian American Film, Video, and New Media: The Politics of Pleasure (4)
(Cross-listed with LTCS 119) The course explores the politics of pleasure in relation to the production, reception, and performance of Asian American identities in the mass media of film, video, and the internet. The course considers how the “deviant” sexuality of Asian Americans (e.g., hypersexual women and emasculated men) does more than uniformly harm and subjugate Asian American subjects. The texts explored alternate between those produced by majority culture and the interventions made by Asian American filmmakers. Students may not receive credit for LTCS 119 and CGS 119. Course can overlap with Regional Specialization GE - Americas

Communication

COMM 102C. MMPP: Practicum in New Media and Community Life (6)
A combined lecture/lab in a specially designed after-school setting in southeastern San Diego working with children and adults. Students design new media and produce special projects, and explore issues related to human development, social justice, and community life. May be taken for credit three times. Prerequisites: none
Dimensions of Culture

DOC 100D. Dimensions of Culture: Promises and Contradictions in US Culture (4)
This course provides a broad overview of key historical contradictions in US history and explores the origins of social stratifications and movements. Students acquire tools for analyzing national tensions. Central aspects include slavery, women’s rights, and rising corporate power. Course introduces concepts at the intersections of class, gender, religion, race, and sexuality. Students learn to analyze and discuss complex historical/societal artifacts. Designed for two student sectors: 1) Marshall College transfer students who have not taken the DOC sequence, and 2) Transfer and other upper-division students from all seven colleges who want to fulfill the campuswide diversity requirement.

Prerequisites: upper-division standing and completion of college writing

Course can overlap with Regional Specialization GE - Americas

Economics

ECO 138. Economics of Discrimination (4)
This course will investigate differences in economic outcomes on the basis of race, gender, ethnicity, religion, and sexual orientation. We will study economic theories of discrimination, empirical work testing those theories, and policies aimed at alleviating group-level differences in economic outcomes.

Prerequisites: ECON 1.

Education Studies

EDS 116. Equity-Minded Education (4)
This course introduces the foundational historical and theoretical issues for the critical study of higher education diversity work and student affairs.
